Forbes

Forbes: 24Fashion TV gives a platform to fashion designers, who we wouldn't normally see. Why is it so hard for designers to get into mainstream fashion publications like VOGUE?

Victoria Unikel: The bigger magazines play it safe and don't include talented, lesser-known designers. It is impossible for a newcomer to compete or expect to be noticed without paying a lot of money to receive press mentions. I created and co-founded 24Fashion TV to create an opportunity for talented emerging designers to have access to a TV channel, something they wouldn't have otherwise.

Why did you co-found VUGA Enterprises?

Since I have been in entertainment most of my life, it felt right—and seemed so appropriate. I co-founded VUGA Enterprises to bring together filmmaking, advertising, and to create a PR powerhouse. Since I founded it in 2018, it has become all those things, on top of being a top TV entertainment channel, as well.
